

A recent report on the global networking terminal device industry for the 1st quarter of 2011 by one of the world's leading industry research organizations – In-Stat, shows TP-LINK's wireless and broadband CPE shipments both ranked No.1 in the world for the 1st quarter, 2011 again, with a growth of 5.33% in wireless and 4.2% in Broadband CPE of global market share compared with the 4th quarter of 2010, amounting to 1.62 times the wireless shipments and 1.88 times the broadband CPE shipments of our closest competitor.

TP-LINK will continue to strive to provide our worldwide users with high quality, cost-effective networking and internet connectivity devices in our effort to capture the hearts of even more people around the globe.

Q1 2011 Top Five Global Networking Terminal Equipment Vendors

Wi-Fi Equipment
Global Ranking	Vendor	Market Share
1	TP-LINK	26.13%
2	NETGEAR	16.11%
3	D-Link	15.32%
4	Linksys	8.03%
5	Technicolor	7.01%

Broadband CPE <small>(Cable / xDSL Modems, Broadband Routers and Residential gates)</small>
Global Ranking	Vendor	Market Share
1	TP-LINK	21.10%
2	D-Link	11.20%
3	NETGEAR	9.20%
4	Technicolor	8.40%
5	Huawei	6.00%

Annotated: In-Stat is a recognized global research institution, as a member of the largest B2B publisher Reed Business Information; In-Stat publishes studies primarily in the communications and consumer electronics market providing in-depth technical analysis to provide the global market with the status of relevant industries and future trends.